

I-Patch

A focus on this month.

Hello Everyone!

I hope that this expanded edition of I-Patch finds you all safe, well and happily ensconced in your sewing rooms. I know that I've spent more time in mine these past 6 weeks than ever before. Mind you, my productivity hasn't been as great as it normally would be – with additional time on my hands I am more relaxed with my sewing progress and less frantic to complete my various projects. I've read of many others who feel that their quilting mojo has deserted them, with an equal number of theories as to why many of us feel a little out of sorts or less focused.

Life IS different and I suspect that we're all experiencing a period of adjustment. Personally, I'm enjoying the rapidly expanding menu of online quilters and quilt organisations that are presenting instructional videos and quilt alongs each week. There is so much to learn and so many talented quilters only too happy to share their talents. I'll add a list of some of my favourites at the end of this message.

We've recently finished our first I-SEW-LATION on-line mystery quilt, Casa Felix, and I have to say that the finished quilt tops are not only amazing but amazingly diverse. So much depends on fabric selection and of course, in this time of 'please stay home', many of us are shopping from our stashes. We always knew that one day we'd be grateful for those stashes! That said, I do encourage everyone to think about ways in which they can continue to support our local quilt shops – we need them to still be there when this pandemic is over. More than ever they need us to modify our shopping habits and consider online or phone orders with social distancing in-store, or curbside collections. We've collated the current opening hours and conditions of our member shops and included them in I-Patch as a quick reference guide for you. Many have also come on board with a suggestion that they offer a Guild member special as a shopping incentive – again we've compiled a list in I-Patch. I'd like to thank those shops and encourage you all to take advantage of these wonderful offers.

Our second Pick-A-Box mystery, designed by our very own Lessa Siegele, began two weeks ago (<https://www.facebook.com/groups/663299804246083/>) but it's not too late to sign up. I'm exploring the possibility of offering something online that's a little different once this current mystery is finished, so I'll keep you all posted. If it doesn't work out, we'll do another mystery!

You would all be aware by now that we have had to postpone Festival of Quilts until later in the year, although a date has not yet been advised. Quilt Encounter has now been rescheduled for the October school holidays. More significantly, our Annual General Meeting, which was due to be held in early May, will now not happen until much later in the year. Each of these postponements brings with it associated issues – not all of which are ideal – but we will try to anticipate most of those issues and to address them the best way we can. If you have any concerns, please don't hesitate to email me: president@saquilters.org.au .

Wishing you all a happy and contented I-SEW-LATION.

Breaking News

Quilt Encounter

Due to the Covid-19 Pandemic currently facing Australia and after much deliberation the QE Committee have made the decision to postpone our annual retreat to October. This will now be a 5 day event from 3rd to 8th October 2020 at Immanuel College. Fortunately nearly all of our amazing tutors will be joining us and we expect most of the scheduled workshops will still go ahead as published in our QE Brochure. There will be some changes and all the registered participants will be advised in due course.

Rural Round-Up

After careful consideration the organising committee for October's Rural Retreat, which was to be held in Cleve, has made the difficult but understandable decision to postpone the event. We hope to bring you more information in the next I-Patch

Festival of Quilts

Festival of Quilts Committee is still accepting entries for the 2020 show whenever it happens to be held. Use the extra time you have at home to finish those UFOs, one of them might be an award winner. If your quilt needs a large bag, the quilt bag pattern is on the Festival of Quilts page of the Guild's web site.

Hello! I am Jenny Loveder and have been a member of the Guild since the early 80s when I was asked by the then Editor of Patches to take over the editor 's job, particularly as I was involved in desk top publishing. Marion Cox had been using copy, cut and paste (G estetner machines!) up until then. I became a member and the rest is history.

I love my quilt-making! It gives me a chance to express my joy in colour, patterns, stitching, all of which makes a useful item. I don 't know how many quilts I have made over the years – just lots! So when this virus restricted our movements, I took the opportunity to sort out incomplete tops, completed tops got backings, and eventually batting, and even more eventually were pinned. But new work always called (!) and the old ones lingered. Four quilts were ready for pinning, and this was done over two days. One is now complete, the second one awaiting its binding being stitched down, the third one is quilted – the fourth one still awaiting. And there are still two new ones waiting!

I have also knitted a woollen scarf, several pairs of fingerless mittens for homeless people as winter approaches. I 've worked very happily in my garden, spoken with local friends via phone or email, or at a distance on the front veranda! My pantry is full enough (and yes, I have sufficient toilet paper!), I can re-read many of my books (and friends drop a new one on the chair on my front veranda) – so for me whilst life is different (and I miss my hugs with my many quilting friends and family) I am content.

I sincerely hope that all of you are content and safe too, and are acknowledging that we are a community which needs and gets support.

My love and hugs to each one of you
Jenny L

Meet

Cindy Massey and Jane Polden

Our friendship started in 1989 in Broken Hill. I had just moved there with my family and met Cindy at playgroup when our kids were little. We shared many of the same interests and enrolled in the local TAFE where we learnt to make children's clothes. We were very productive in churning out kid's clothes until our kids formed an opinion, then it stopped quite rapidly.

I saw the local Silver City Quilters' group advertised in the paper and decided we should join. "Come on Cindy. Let's join the patchwork group" so off we went to our first meeting with Cindy's youngest, Siobhan, in tow. Not knowing what to expect the first thing we were faced with was a minute of silence for the passing of one of the members. What have we got ourselves into? We persevered and had such a wonderful time over the years. Often getting told off by the older members who on average were 70-80-year old (we were in our late 20's).

Over the years our skills grew, and we were honoured to take on many different executive roles within the group, both achieving our 10 year badges with the group.

As a group, we travelled to many Quilt Encounters, 10 in all, starting in Victor Harbor and then Roseworthy. We met such a wonderful group of women and laughed and laughed over many things. Many of the projects are still in bits in the cupboard. Every year we loved going to 'QUILT CAMP' as we called it.

Circumstances change and, in 2004, I moved to South Australia, joining the McLaren Vale Patchworkers in 2012. Enjoying patchwork again reminding me that the patchwork groups are not only for sewing but for forming lifelong friendships and support for each other.

Cindy moved to Adelaide 2018 and the terrific twosome were united again. We decided to join the Quilters' Guild to again have fun, laugh and enjoy the friendships we are making along the way.

We are lucky to have enjoyed decades of friendship and laughter, always with an abundance of projects of some sort on the go, and always many more on the drawing board. While our styles of quilting differ, we are always happy to get together often, laugh a lot and share our love of creating fabulous quilts and other "stuff".

TOGETHER IN ISOLATION

By 17 March 2020 the world had already come to a standstill. We were in a state of isolation and confusion due to the dreadful virus that was circulating through the entire population of all countries. However, on that day Chris O'Brien, President of the Quilters' Guild of South Australia, established the Facebook page for the QGSA Casa Felix Mystery Quilt and suddenly quilters from all over Australia and around the world had the opportunity to come together to participate in creating and sharing the art of quilting.

By 30 March there were 400 members and it was decided that was enough and the group was closed to new members. But they kept coming, so the group was opened up again and by 20 April, 524 members had joined much to the delight of us all.

We waited in anticipation for Chris to upload the first step so that we could select fabric combinations. We shared advice on colours, values, tips, tricks and techniques. We learned about spinning seams, foundation paper piecing flying geese and some of us even stayed in our pyjamas. As each step was created, progress photos were uploaded by members so that we could compare, comment, advise and support each other in our choices.

We had established a community in isolation, a camaraderie of quilters who shared photos of our pets and kids, our sewing rooms and views, recipes, jigsaws, brain teasers and cartoons. We said Happy Birthday to Chris, Sheila and Bron and laughed when Rose said she had to take a "goose break."

Together in isolation, the world didn't seem so mad. Collectively, we quilters had created an online community that allowed us to feel a part of something in common even though we were separated physically.

When it was all over, we had a Show and Tell of finished quilts that made us proud of ourselves and each other.

Let's hope that this wonderful experience is repeated again and again.

Kathy Rossini
